

HUMILITY

K.P. FAGAN

It is the early 1950s

and Frank “Buster” Wortman’s mob runs the streets of St. Louis without fear. But a shadow haunts this city with the will to do what the police either can’t or won’t. A lone and silent vigilante, he stalks and strikes these men of violence under cover of dark motivated by the need for justice, K. P. FAGAN is a writer living near Atlanta, Georgia.

For more information, other writings or to contact the author, go to: amillionreaders.com